FLORIDA HURRICANE DEATH TOLL IS NOW 800

COMPLETE SURVEY MADE REVEALS GHASTLY FIGURES

TRIP THROUGH DESOLATE SECTION MADE AMERICAN LEGION STATE ADJUTANT

DEVASTATED AREA IS ESTIMATED AT ABOUT 65 SQUARE MILES

West Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 20. —(UP)—A complete survey of the hurricane-stricken area around Okeechobee and Miami Lock has revealed that there are about 800 dead.

The trip through the section was made by C. Howard Rowton, state adjutant of the American Legion, accompanied by a United Press correspondent.

Dr. J. W. Buch, post commander of the American Legion at Selleglade, furnished the estimate of 800 dead and said the devastated area covered 65 square miles.

Adjutant General Vivian Collins of Florida, after a survey of Palm Beach county estimated today the number of shelterless citizens of the Twin Cities at 8,000 and refugees from the west and south at 4,000. He said that "probably 350" perished in this county alone.

DEATH TOLLS ARE RISING STEADILY

Death tolls rose steadily today as relief forces pushed farther into the areas which were struck by the tropical hurricane.

From the Lake Okeechobee and West Palm Beach sections in Florida came revised reports which estimated that 800 persons had lost their lives from the wind and the flood waters of the lake.

Porto Rican officials still were trying to establish communication with several isolated points. Coffee plantations suffered heavily, the latest dispatches said. The dead stood somewhere between 300 and 1,000, with Gov. Horace M. Towner refusing to make a definite estimate until all reports were received.

The French parliament will be asked to appropriate $4,000,000 for the relief of storm sufferers in the French West Indies. Guadeloupe alone has 660 dead.

New York weather was back to normal after the Metropolitan area has been battered by a high wind, which was accompanied by heavy rain.

MENACE OF FIRE AT PORTO RICO

By ANGEL RAMOS

(United Press Staff Correspondent) San Juan, Porto Rico, Sept. 20.—The menace of fire among fallen trees, which have dried out until they are almost like tinder, was added to the perils which beset this storm ravaged island today.

The situation became so grave that commercial firms turned over their trucks to the National Guard, which has taken charge of clearing the streets. City officials have no trucks available.

Known deaths from the various sections were listed as follows:

Patillas, 19.
Adjuntas, 2.
Aibonito, 19.
Barranquitas, 4.
Manati, 3.
Gurabo, 4.
Ullado, 80.
Cayey, 42.
San Sebastian, 36.

More than 700,000 persons—half the population of the island—are homeless. The Porto Rico railway, Light & Power Co., was damaged to the extent of $3,000,000, its two big plants at Comerio having been destroyed. The company will be unable to give service for weeks.

In Aibonito it was reported that 456 tobacco ranches had been destroyed and that 806 persons were homeless.

Emergency committees are being organized throughout the island, and meanwhile the Red Cross is sending help to the mayors of the various towns.

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 20.—Relief and rehabilitation proceeded steadily today as south Florida dug itself out from the storm which took many lives and did millions of dollars worth of property damage.

Greatest danger at present was from disease and exposure. Red Cross officials in charge of relief work said. Anti-tetanus serum and other inoculations have been requested, and chlorine is being used

Internal Dissention in the Rail-Warehouse Body

VEST POCKET DEVICE TO WAR ON GANGSTERS

St. Paul, Sept. 20. —(UP)—An innocent appearing little device, which looks for all the world like a fountain pen, was carried by St. Paul police today for use on gangsters, bandits and other uncouth gentry.

The weapon, so small that it can be carried in a vest pocket, contains tear gas which is blinding and effective for a considerable distance.

The "tear-pen" is expected to be adopted by police throughout the state if its use here proves satisfactory.

GOV. AL SMITH IN ANSWER TO "WHISPER TALK"

TO DISCUSS CHARGES ABOUT HIS RELIGION AND PERSONAL LIFE

SELECTS OKLAHOMA FOR SPEECH
WHERE RELIGIOUS ISSUE IS OUTSTANDING ONE

By THOMAS L. STOKES

(United Press Staff Correspondent) Aboard Governor Smith's Special Train enroute to Oklahoma City, Sept. 20.—Governor Alfred E. Smith will meet the "whispering campaign" in the second speech of his western tour at Oklahoma City tonight.

As is his custom he has picked for a discussion of the charges about his religion and his personal life the state in which it is reported the religious issue has become an outstanding one. He is expected to talk frankly and plainly.

Democratic state leaders insisted upon Smith making a personal appearance in the state to bolster up their forces. Republicans are making a strong bid and the state regarded as democratic in presidential elections now is decidedly in the "doubtful" class.

The democratic candidate goes into Oklahoma on his mission highly encouraged with the enthusiastic receptions accorded him through the corn belt. He was kept busy yesterday waving his brown derby and shaking hands with crowds gathered at short stops to see and cheer him.

The climax was at Topeka, Kansas last night, the home town of Sen. Charles Curtis, republican vice-presidential candidate.

A delegation of about 50 democrats got on the Smith special train at Manhattan and rode to Topeka for the turnout there which was between 10,000 and 15,000 strong. There were red torches and even a speakers' stand that was not used as the democratic candidate refused to make a speech. Observers said the demonstration was larger than that for Curtis at the homecoming celebration after his nomination. The Smith train stopped only a few minutes.

The democratic candidate left the farm belt with a challenge to state his farm relief position definitely from Governor Adam McMullen of Nebraska, republican farm leader who praised Smith for his Omaha statement about the McNary-Haugen bill. He said it was "an unequivocal endorsement" of the measure but suggested that he say later just what he thought on the equalization fee.

McMullen gave Herbert Hoover a conditioned endorsement but said later he would wait until Smith's Omaha speech before definitely stating his position.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 20.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith arrived here at 9:58 A. M. and was given an ovation by thousands who met him at the Rock Island station.

In some temporary water supplies to prevent spread of disease.

The dead were being buried as rapidly as bodies were found and placed in coffins. Undertakers have offered to aid all they can by furnishing caskets at cost and charging nothing for their time.

Palm Beach county and the Lake Okeechobee district were hardest hit. The estimated Florida death list including Palm Beach today was increased to 800 by Red Cross reports.

SENATOR CURTIS ADDRESSES SIOUX INDIANS TODAY

HE WAS LARGELY RESPONSIBLE FOR LAW GIVING UNIVERSAL
INDIAN SUFFRAGE

SEN. CURTIS' MATERNAL GRAND-
MOTHER WAS A PRINCESS OF THE KAW TRIBE

Rosebud, S. D., Sept. 20. —(UP)—Sioux Indians, gathered here to celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of the Rosebud reservation, were both praised and admonished today by Senator Charles Curtis, the first of their race ever to attain the political prominence of a vice-presidential nominee.

He lauded their war record and peace-time progress, but warned them against idleness, liquor and "overindulgence in modern dancing."

"You must overcome any tendency or desire to neglect work for other pursuits," Curtis said. "In the early days of your history you were famous dancers and it is claimed that other tribes took their dances from you."

"But this does not justify excessive indulgence in modern dancing. Conditions are changed. You now have responsibilities which you should remember."

"While I am in this cautioning mood, let me speak about the bootlegging and liquor drinking of which I understand there is too much around the reservation. I particularly advise you against the use of liquor. I know you will obey all laws."

For the first time since establishment of the reservation, the Indians were permitted to dance their old tribal dances, the sun dance and other ceremonial dances. Authorities held that these dances tended to fire the imaginations of the braves and cause them to desire to go on the war path. But they abrogated the rule for the present celebration.

"I hope you will accept not only the privileges of citizenship, but its responsibilities as well," the senator said. "One of those responsibilities is voting. I should, of course, like to have you vote for me and my party, but I should rather have you vote against me than not at all."

Curtis' maternal grandmother was a princess of the Kaw tribe and the senator was largely responsible for enactment of a law granting universal Indian suffrage.

Senator McMaster and E. E. McKean met Curtis this morning at Valentine, Neb., where his private car was sidetracked, and accompanied him to the Rosebud fairgrounds, now converted into a city of tents for the pow-wow. Senator Norbeck joined them there.

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 20. —(UP)—Property damage caused by last Friday's tornado in Rockford will approximate $1,200,000, it was stated today after a detailed survey. Much of the loss was covered by tornado insurance.

The storm took a total of 14 lives and caused injuries to 100 others, sixteen of whom are still confined to hospitals.

HONOLULU PEOPLE SEARCH OAHU ISLE FOR KIDNAPERS

Honolulu, T. H., Sept. 20. —(UP)—Police and citizens today were searching every part of the island of Oahu for 10-year-old Gill Jamieson and the kidnapers who lured the boy from a private school Tuesday.

As the hours passed, Frederick Jamieson, father of the boy, who already had paid $4,000 to the abductors, became more fearful that his son had been killed.

Jamieson, wealthy vice president of the Hawaiian Trust company, met a man yesterday and gave him the $4,000. The man promised to return with the child but nothing has been seen or heard from either since.

The kidnaping is the first in the history of the Hawaiian islands.

ASSAILS HIRTH, MURPHY AND GEORGE N. PEEK

SAYS THEY WERE RESPONSIBLE FOR DELAYED ACTION ON McNARY-HAUGEN BILL

ASSERTS THEY WANTED THE ISSUE KEPT ALIVE IN COUNTRY

Des Moines, Sept. 20. —(UP)—Sen. Smith W. Brookhart today told more than 2,000 farmers of Iowa they had been betrayed in "the house of their friends." He addressed the annual convention of the Iowa Farmers' Union.

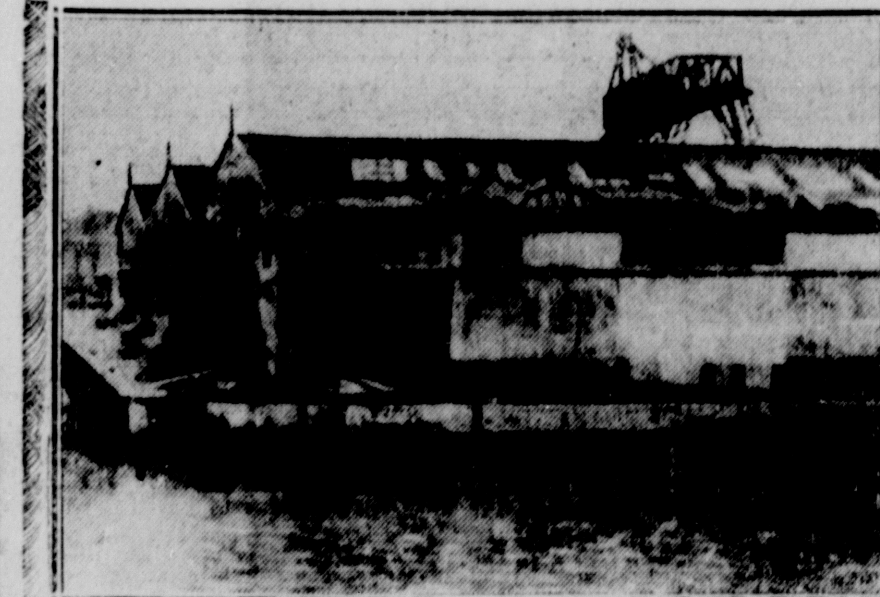

William Hirth of Columbia, Mo., Frank M. Murphy of Minnesota, and George N. Peek, of Moline, Ill., were responsible for delayed action on the McNary-Haugen bill in the last session of congress, Brookhart declared.

"These men wanted to keep the issue alive," Brookhart said. "They pulled every possible string to delay it in both the house and the senate. They wanted it passed late and vetoed and killed so there would be no time to pass another bill that might give some relief."

VINE COVERED BOX CONTAINED LOT OF WHISKEY

St. Paul, Sept. 20. —(UP)—Prohibition agents displayed today a novel floral exhibit seized in a raid here, an attractive vine covered box which contained 46 "blossom" pints of whiskey. The "florist," however, was not in the soft drink bar when the establishment was raided and no arrests were made.

IN THE PATH OF FIERCE HURRICANE

One of the first photos of Porto Rican hurricane to reach America. Wrecked pier in San Juan port, where many small craft were destroyed at the height of the terrible wind storm, is shown. The wind is said to have reached a velocity of 200 miles, leaving in its trail all manner of ruins and personal tragedies. The death toll is not yet known, but it is feared that the losses were extremely great.

Picture rushed by airplane and over telephone wires of wreckage resulting of the hurricane which recently swept Porto Rico, leaving death, famine and destruction in its wake. Debris in front of San Juan department store is shown.

QUEEN MARY AS CENSOR OF FILMS AT HER HOME

London, Sept. 20. —(UP)—Queen Mary of England has constituted herself censor of the films shown privately for the enjoyment of the royal family and its guests at Balmoral castle.

A projector has been set up in one of the drawing rooms and the queen selects appropriate musical accompaniments to be played on the phonograph.

Her Majesty's taste in films runs to outdoor films, comedies and news reels, especially those showing any member of the family performing a public duty.

WOMEN'S CLUBS IN CONVENTION AT MANKATO

34TH ANNUAL MEETING TURNS TO ROUTINE AFFAIRS
TODAY

YESTERDAY WAS A DAY THAT WAS CRAMMED FULL OF SPEECHES

Mankato, Sept. 20. —(UP)—The thirty-fourth annual convention of the Minnesota Federation of Women's Clubs turned to routine affairs today after a full day of speeches yesterday.

Congressman Henry W. Temple, Pennsylvania, member of the house foreign affairs committee lauded the Kellogg peace pact, signed recently in Paris by the leading nations of the world. Dr. Temple said the policy was far in advance of anything hitherto proposed in the interest of world peace.

Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, Minneapolis, former president of the American Federation of Women's Clubs, urged the convention delegates to exercise the franchise but appealed to them to vote on policies and not on personalities.

Following assembly singing today led by Mrs. P. D. Beaulieu, Mankato, the chairmen of various committees made their reports. These chairmen included Mrs. Thomas Mohn, Red Wing, on the revision committee; Mrs. F. S. Arnold, Bemidji, auditor's report; Mrs. J. W. Murdoch, Wabasha, historian's report, and Mrs. E. H. Loyhed, president of the Faribault club, the founders' and pioneers' report.

Immediately following the reports Bird J. Vincent of Michigan addressed the convention of immigration.

Education, literature, including Biblical literature and reforestation, were to be discussed this afternoon. Ray P. Chase, state auditor, and Grover M. Conzel, state forester, who have recently been at odds over sale of state timber, were to be late afternoon speakers.

Meanwhile the convention considered invitations from Minneapolis, Albert Lea and Faribault for convention sites in 1929. The decision on next year's convention city was to be announced later.

HELICOPTER PLANE SMASHED MAKING LANDING

Paris, Sept. 20. —(UP)—The helicopter plane of the Spanish inventor, Juan de la Cierva, was demolished in making a landing today.

Cierva and his passenger, Frantz Rechel, escaped unhurt.

On Tuesday Cierva, making his first flight in any machine, piloted the strange craft across the channel from London to Paris, with two intermediate stops. The achievement was hailed as the greatest aviation feat since Louis Blériot flew the channel in a heavier-than-air machine in 1909.

The helicopter has a regular propeller in front, and another horizontal propeller on top which permits rising and descending almost vertically, making long runs for a take-off and long glides for landing unnecessary.

Today's accident was due to the failure of the upper propeller to break the plane's speed sufficiently in hovering to land from a height of 600 feet. The plane landed heavily, smashing the landing gear, wings and body.

BREAK BETWEEN THE MEMBERS IS APPARENT TODAY

OCCURS OVER SUSPENSION OF JOINT FREIGHT RATE
SCHEDULE

CONCERNS RULING MADE ON STATE MOTOR TRUCK
LINES

St. Paul, Sept. 20. —(UP)—Internal dissention appeared in the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission today over suspension of the joint freight rate schedule of state motor truck lines.

The break between commission members became apparent when O. P. J. Jacobson and C. J. Laurisch filed supplemental orders to the order of suspension filed Monday by Frank W. Matson.

Jacobson and Laurisch maintained that the Raymond Brothers lines, St. Paul, and the Bonde, Bonde, Bergerud, Aune & Aune, Fergus Falls, Company would not have to abide by the Matson order but could operate freely under the joint schedule. The two large lines form one of the important links in the attempt of 23 truck companies to form a unified system.

Matson declared on the other hand that "the joint rate schedule should not become effective until this commission has fully heard the testimony." He pointed to that portion of state law which states: "No time schedule, tariff or rate shall be put into effect or changed or altered except upon hearing duly had," and added:

"This section of the law merely sets forth the procedure this commission shall follow before this proposed tariff can be made effective. No informal hearing has been had thereon nor has this commission made any order thereon."

"The rail carriers, after service of this proposed tariff upon them, filed with this commission their formal objections thereto. In my opinion the procedure set forth should be strictly followed and the tariff not become effective until the commission has fully heard the testimony."

The joint rate schedule was filed August 28 by companies serving 175 Minnesota cities and towns and makes possible a charge of only 90 per cent of the local motor truck freight rates for all freight carried over two or more lines.

Hearing on the rate schedule was set for September 27 following protests by the principal northwestern railways.

FLOOD CONDITIONS PREVAIL IN EASTERN NORTH CAROLINA

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 20. —(UP)—Flood conditions prevailed in eastern North Carolina today in the wake of the tropical storm that blew up the coast.

The weather bureau here predicted flood stages on all rivers in the eastern part of the state.

Railroad lines, highways and bridges have been damaged.

At Lumberton, the Lumber river went out of its banks and forced families to flee.

Washington, Newbern and Kingston reported streets had been flooded.

LOW HANGING FOG DELAYS START OF CLASS A FLIGHT

Mines Field, Los Angeles, Sept. 20. —(UP)—Start of the class A controlled Los Angeles to Cincinnati flight was delayed this morning by a low hanging fog.

The planes in the contest were to have left at one minute intervals starting at 5 a. m. Officials believed the competition might not get under way until 1 p. m.

BYRD EXPEDITION SUPPLY SHIP TO SAIL FOR ANTARCTIC

Balboa, C. Z., Sept. 20. —(UP)—The Byrd expedition's supply ship, City of New York, will sail for the polar regions tomorrow after completion of repairs to the ship's pumps, which caused her to turn back after starting down the Pacific.

QUEEN MARY AS CENSOR OF FILMS AT HER HOME

London, Sept. 20.—(U.P.)—Queen Mary of England has constituted herself censor of the films shown privately for the enjoyment of the royal family and its guests at Balmoral castle.

A projector has been set up in one of the drawing rooms and the queen selects appropriate musical accompaniments to be played on the phonograph.

Her Majesty's taste in films runs to outdoor films, comedies and news reels, especially those showing any member of the family performing a public duty.

WOMEN'S CLUBS IN CONVENTION AT MANKATO

34TH ANNUAL MEETING TURNS TO ROUTINE AFFAIRS TODAY

YESTERDAY WAS A DAY THAT WAS CRAMMED FULL OF SPEECHES

Mankato, Sept. 20.—(UP)—The thirty-fourth annual convention of the Minnesota Federation of Women's Clubs turned to routine affairs today after a full day of speeches yesterday.

Congressman Henry W. Temple, Pennsylvania, member of the house foreign affairs committee lauded the Kellogg peace pact, signed recently in Paris by the leading nations of the world. Dr. Temple said the policy was far in advance of anything hitherto proposed in the interest of world peace.

Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, Minneapolis, former president of the American Federation of Women's Clubs, urged the convention delegates to exercise the franchise but appealed to them to vote on policies and not on personalities.

Following assembly singing today led by Mrs. P. D. Beaulieu, Mankato, the chairmen of various committees made their reports. These chairmen included Mrs. Thomas Mohn, Red Wing, on the revision committee report; Mrs. F. S. Arnold, Bemidji, auditor's report; Mrs. J. W. Murdoch, Wabasha, historian's report, and Mrs. E. H. Loyd, president of the Faribault club, the founders' and pioneers' report.

Immediately following the reports Bird J. Vincent of Michigan addressed the convention of immigration.

Education, literature, including Biblical literature and reforestation, were to be discussed this afternoon. Ray P. Chase, state auditor, and Grover M. Conzel, state forester, who have recently been at odds over sale of state timber, were to be late afternoon speakers.

Meanwhile the convention considered invitations from Minneapolis, Albert Lea and Faribault for convention sites in 1929. The decision on next year's convention city was to be announced later.

HELICOPTER PLANE SMASHED MAKING LANDING

Paris, Sept. 20.—(U.P.)—The helicopter plane of the Spanish inventor, Juan de la Cerva, was demolished in making a landing today.

Cerva and his passenger, Frantz Reche, escaped unhurt.

On Tuesday Cerva, making his first flight in any machine, piloted the strange craft across the channel from London to Paris, with two intermediate stops. The achievement was hailed as the greatest aviation feat since Louis Blériot flew the channel in a heavier-than-air machine in 1909.

The helicopter has a regular propeller in front, and another horizontal propeller on top which permits rising and descending almost vertically, making long runs for a take-off and long glides for landing unnecessary.

Today's accident was due to the failure of the upper propeller to break the plane's speed sufficiently in hovering to land from a height of 600 feet. The plane landed heavily, smashing the landing gear, wings and body.

BREAK BETWEEN THE MEMBERS IS APPARENT TODAY

OCCURS OVER SUSPENSION OF JOINT FREIGHT RATE SCHEDULE

CONCERNS RULING MADE ON STATE MOTOR TRUCK LINES

St. Paul, Sept. 20.—(UP)—Internal dissension appeared in the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission today over suspension of the joint freight rate schedule of state motor truck lines.

The break between commission members became apparent when O. P. J. Jacobson and C. J. Laurisch filed supplemental orders to the order of suspension filed Monday by Frank W. Matson.

Jacobson and Laurisch maintained that the Raymond Brothers lines, St. Paul, and the Bonde, Bonde, Bergerud, Aune & Aune, Fergus Falls, Company would not have to abide by the Matson order but could operate freely under the joint schedule. The two large lines form one of the important links in the attempt of 23 truck companies to form a unified system.

Matson declared on the other hand that "the joint rate schedule should not become effective until this commission has fully heard the testimony." He pointed to that portion of state law which states: "No time schedule, tariff or rate shall be put into effect or changed or altered except upon hearing duly had," and added:

"This section of the law merely sets forth the procedure this commission shall follow before this proposed tariff can be made effective. No informal hearing has been had thereon nor has this commission made any order thereon."

"The rail carriers, after service of this proposed tariff upon them, filed with this commission their formal objections thereto. In my opinion the procedure set forth should be strictly followed and the tariff not become effective until the commission has fully heard the testimony."

The joint rate schedule was filed August 28 by companies serving 175 Minnesota cities and towns and makes possible a charge of only 90 per cent of the local motor truck freight rates for all freight carried over two or more lines.

Hearing on the rate schedule was set for September 27 following protests by the principal northwestern railways.

FLOOD CONDITIONS PREVAIL IN EASTERN NORTH CAROLINA

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 20.—(U.P.)—Flood conditions prevailed in eastern North Carolina today in the wake of the tropical storm that blew up the coast.

The weather bureau here predicted flood stages on all rivers in the eastern part of the state.

Railroad lines, highways and bridges have been damaged.

At Lumberton, the Lumber river went out of its banks and forced families to flee.

Washington, Newbern and Kingston reported streets had been flooded.

LOW HANGING FOG DELAYS START OF CLASS A FLIGHT

Mines Field, Los Angeles, Sept. 20.—(U.P.)—Start of the class A controlled Los Angeles to Cincinnati flight was delayed this morning by a low hanging fog.

The planes in the contest were to have left at one minute intervals starting at 5 a. m. Officials believed the competition might not get under way until 1 p. m.

BYRD EXPEDITION SUPPLY SHIP TO SAIL FOR ANTARCTIC

Balboa, C. Z., Sept. 20.—(U.P.)—The Byrd expedition's supply ship, City of New York, will sail for the polar regions tomorrow after completion of repairs to the ship's pumps, which caused her to turn back after starting down the Pacific.

ADVENTISTS OPEN MISSION CAMPAIGN

Brainerd Seventh Day Adventists Assist in Raising Money to Carry on Work of Church

NEW MISSIONARY ENTERPRISES

World Membership of Denomination Placed at 300,000; Goal Fixed at Four Million Dollars

Members of the Brainerd Seventh Day Adventist church are busily engaged in their annual campaign for missions, endeavoring to reach their portion of the denomination's four million dollar fund with which to carry on next year's work.

With a membership of less than 300,000 the Adventists denomination covers the whole world, working in 127 countries and more than 279 languages, their literature being published in 132 languages. They are supporting in foreign lands, 7,136 missionaries, including evangelists, teachers, doctors and nurses, besides 3,481 institutional workers. Last year they were able to send into mission fields, 184 new workers, consecrated men and women who represent every type of Christian service. The fund they are raising is made up of contributions given by themselves and solicited from their friends and those who are acquainted and in sympathy with their world wide work.

The world membership of the Adventists church gave to missions in 1922 a per capita amount of $13.75, the members in North America, a per capita of $24.35. These figures are exclusive of the tithe sent regularly by these people to their church treasurers.

The annual report—the Harvest Ingathering issue of the Watchman magazine is printed in many languages and distributed throughout the world by officers and lay members. It shows the progress in each country, is beautifully illustrated, and its articles are filled with wonderful experiences of the missionaries. A copy of this report is given to each contributor.

The treatment and cure of lepers in South Africa is one of the Adventists' great achievements of the past year. These unfortunate sufferers have heretofore been neglected because of the seeming incurable nature of their disease, but now a number of cases of actual cure have recently been reported, one dispensary reporting the permanent cure of 14 leper patients.

More than 85,000 patients of 50 different nationalities are treated yearly for little or no charge in the Pacific coast dispensaries of Seventh Day Adventists and the same work is carried on in a larger degree by their institutions in the east.

Sixty-six academies and colleges are scattered over the United States and thousands of young people are trained each year for missionary work both in the homeland and in mission fields. The heartiness with which they respond to the calls to go, evidences with wonderful clearness their unselfish spirit of Christian service. The yearly recruiting of these forces and the spending of thousands of dollars in the establishment of new missionary enterprises, create a growing demand upon the members at home who, while giving of their own means, devote much time in acquainting those not of their faith with the importance and necessity of the work. In this way they are able to gather in many thousands of dollars to further the gospel cause.

"Adventists believe in the literal, personal appearing of Christ in this world, but not in setting a date for that appearance. They hold that the moral law, the Ten Commandments, is now and ever will be in force, and that it supports their belief that the seventh day and not the first, is still the Sabbath of the Lord. They adhere strictly to the Bible as their sole rule of faith and practice, and test every doctrine by its writings. Seventh Day Adventists believe in religious liberty, that it is the right of every individual to worship or not to worship according to the dictates of his own conscience, providing in the exercise of this right he respects the equal rights of others. They claim that the religion of Jesus Christ is founded on the law of love and needs no human power to enforce it. They believe that all religious legislation tends to unite, and is opposed to the best interests of church and state, is subversive to human rights and persecuting in character; that it is therefore their duty to use every lawful and honorable means to prevent such legislation and oppose any move that would promote the union of church and state," writes Rev. Emil G. Sauer, pastor of the local church.

Jordan-Bossus

Miss Helen Bossus and Charles Jordan, both of St. Mathias, were united in marriage at the St. Mathias Catholic church Tuesday, September 18, with Rev. Father Bossus, of Dorothy, Minn., officiating. The bride's sister, Miss Rose Bossus, was the bridesmaid and her brother, Emil Bossus was the best man.

The ceremonies took place in the morning after which they had breakfast at the Wm. Gravell home. The wedding dinner was given at the Wm. Gravell home, the dining room being beautifully decorated and worked out on a pink and white color scheme, for the occasion. Sweetpeas, cosmos and gladiolus were among the different kinds of flowers used for decoration. Among the dinner guests were Rev. Father Bossus, Rev. Father Tertoggen, Mrs. Jones and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gravell, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Jordan, Dorothy Jordan, Mrs. C. Jordan.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jordan will make their future home in Brainerd, the bridegroom being employed at the N. P. shops. A large reception was given in the evening in Mr. Veillette's hall to relatives and friends. They received many beautiful gifts.

Minneapolis, Sept. 20.—Roy Pederson, 25, was instantly killed here today when his motorcycle collided with a truck. The truck driver was not held.

REPUBLICAN PARTY AIDS WORKERS

THE Republican party protects the worker. That principle was enunciated by Herbert Hoover in his address at Newark, N. J., on Sept. 17. Here in a town like Brainerd where every man works at some task, the statements of Mr. Hoover should be read with attention and digested.

"The first of our policies which have given security and expansion of employment has been the enactment of the protective tariff," said Mr. Hoover. "The protective tariff has been a fundamental policy of the Republican party ever since the party was founded. Against it the Democratic party has battled for these same seventy years. Two months ago their platform hinted that they thought we might be right. However, they declared for a tariff that would maintain effective competition. That must mean a tariff which will maintain effective competition of foreign against American goods. That is not protection. That this is the meaning is borne out by references to the Underwood Tariff of the last Democratic administration as the ideal.

"The re-enactment of that tariff would let in a flood of foreign goods, destroy employment and lower wages and demoralize our farmers all over the United States. I would suggest that the employees of industries in New Jersey and the country should directly investigate as to what would happen to their employment with lowered tariffs."

Another thing that the Republican party has done to aid labor in the United States is championing proper immigration laws and their enforcement.

Mr. Hoover says: "The Republican administration imposed restrictions upon immigration largely to protect the American workman. With the bars of immigration down the flow of those seeking relief from the poverty of Europe would create a horde of job hunters around every employment office and every industrial gate in the United States. The pressure of this flood would break our wages towards the levels of Europe."

"No one places a higher worth upon the foreign-born citizen than I do. He brings many elements of great value in our cultural development. The immigration laws should be amended to remedy the hardships to families. I have urged before that this be done. In my acceptance speech I stated my opposition to any increase in immigration. The restriction upon immigration is a boon not only to those of my hearers who were born on American soil but to those who have come from the old countries, for every one would suffer equally by the lowering of wages and standards of living."

"The enactment of this law was opposed on economic grounds. I do not here propose to enter into the arguments which were advanced in perfect good faith that production in America would shrink because we would have too few workers, that the cost of living would thus increase, or that it would destroy America's ability to compete in the shipment of her goods into foreign markets. I did not agree with these arguments. I believe that the maintenance of the higher standards of living stimulate the development of labor-saving devices, increase skill in our workmen, and in our managers, and that in this way we compensate for higher wages. It is proving itself so today. We are exporting more goods abroad than ever in our history. We are gradually lowering the cost of living by greater efficiency."

"There is no measure on our statute books today that represents a more fundamental, sound and important step in true progress than does this new charter of American labor. It is the necessary and natural companion piece of a protective tariff. In the one instance we protect the American worker from the goods of foreign factories, made under their lower standards of living. In the other case, we prevent the excess labor flooding through our doors to reduce the American wage."

Summing it all up, it is through the protective tariff and restrictive immigration that American industry is protected from the unfair competition of cheaply made foreign goods, and the American workman is made secure in his job and guaranteed wages much higher than would be the case if he were compelled to compete with the horde of cheap foreign labor that would flood this country if the immigration bars were lowered.

These things are facts. Does any worker want to imperil his job by changing conditions? Do you want a Democratic change in tariff and opening the gates to immigration to lower the worker's pay and standard of living? The question is a vital one.

LIND REFUSES TO BACK TAMMANY

FORMER GOVERNOR JOHN LIND, staunch democrat, will not "vote for Tammany," he declared, according to the statement published in the Minneapolis Tribune.

He made no comment on Alfred E. Smith or Herbert Hoover as candidates, but made it plain he is bolting the Smith nomination.

"I shall not vote for Tammany," Mr. Lind said. "I served with Tammany representatives in congress for years, and know it well enough to know that it is devoid of principle. The Tammany organization has been a millstone on the neck of the democratic party as long as I can remember."

"If the party once gets rid of the Tammany influence, I am confident we shall see a union of the liberal elements from Mexico and the Gulf of Mexico to Canada. It may not come in my time, but I have always worked for it. The best interests of the party and of the country demand such a union and hence insure its coming some time."

Mr. Lind was a republican member of congress from the second Minnesota district from 1887 to 1893, left the party on the silver issue in 1896, and was elected governor as a democrat in 1898. He served one term in congress as a democrat from the fifth district, from 1903 to 1905. In 1913 he was President Wilson's special representative in Mexico.

STORM SEWER

EVERY heavy storm with over two inches rainfall brings the truth nearer that a storm sewer is an absolute necessity in our business district.

After we count the losses sustained, we may figure it is cheaper to build one. With the project of the sewer comes also the debate as to how much territory is to be taxed for the improvement.

Are the benefits to be assessed southward into residence area, and how far in the other directions?

MANY of the indolent Southerners of the colored race have hookworm. A Public Health Service report now indicates that more than half the adult population regardless of color line has ringworm.

WHAT'LL HE SAY IN NOVEMBER?

Broadway Love

by Thomas Edgefow

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JANET WILDE is the young and pretty daughter of Fenimore Wilde, one of Broadway's favorite actors. His son Frank is an idler and, like his father, a spendthrift. The girl has a hard time mothering them both. On the eve of a great opening night for her father, Janet accepts the proposal of Gordon Pryor, a young but impecunious actor. In a restaurant she meets a young musician, Leonard Quigg, who attracts her. Janet's father drops dead after a brilliant performance, leaving her and her brother almost penniless. Gordon Pryor breaks his engagement and Janet realizes that it was her father's prestige and not love for her that prompted his proposal. She obtains the position of confidential secretary to John Montague, theatrical impresario. At the same time she quarrels with Leonard Quigg and ceases a friendship with a brilliant young doctor, David Churchill, who is secretly in love with Janet. Her employer offers to make her a star and settle a large sum of money on her—with provisions. She sneers at his "generosity" and makes him promise never to mention the matter again. When she patches up her quarrel with Leonard Quigg he takes her to the studio of his uncle, Chester Quigg, well-established artist.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVIII.
LEONARD went to the huge piano at the back of the vast apartment and seemed lost in his music. Janet was sitting on a couch with Chester Quigg, examining a portfolio full of drawings.

"Look at the shading of that foot, Miss Wilde," Chester exclaimed shamelessly. "Masterly! You must admit—I defy you to deny—that the shading of that foot is masterly!"

And the fact remained—that the shading was masterly, and that master of the pencil knew it, and raved about his own work just exactly as though it had been executed by somebody else.

"So few artists are modest," Janet permitted herself, with a sly smile.

"Modesty—what is it?" he belated. "Stuff for women! Modesty! No one worth anything is modest—only another form of hypocrisy! Away with it!"

"Must you shout at the lady?" A small voice, rather a charming voice, penetrated to Janet's ears.

Looking up, Janet perceived a little girl with a grave, sweet face, and long, golden hair, which she wore down over her shoulders.

"You mustn't mind him," the little girl went on. "He wouldn't shout and splain things to you if he didn't like you, but father is not as other men."

"Heart of my heart! Aren't I as other men?" Chester Quigg shouted, and he picked his little daughter up as though she had been five instead of twelve, and sat her on his knee.

"Aren't you always saying that you aren't? And don't you know enough, Daddy, to introduce me? Will you never be conventional?"

"Poor child! Hoping for the impossible—that her parent will be what he can't be," Leonard, who had joined the little group, put in. "This is that unfortunate child, Alice Quigg—Janet Wilde," he introduced them.

Alice struggled off her father's knee and made Janet a little old-fashioned courtesy. She looked at the visitor admiringly, and then much as though she were criticizing a picture, she said: "You're very beautiful."

"Thank you very much," Janet said laughing. "Do you generally tell people what you think?"

"This is 'The Studio of Truth,'" Alice replied gravely. "Daddy calls it that, and you've no idea how 'barrasing' it is at times—to live in a studio of truth. Some people don't like it, and then they get mad and go away, and unless I can soothe them down, then we don't see them any more. I don't suppose you've ever been a soother, have you?"

"A soother?" Janet asked, deciding that already she loved this child.

"A soother of an artist's nerves," Alice explained. "Daddy says that's my job, and that I do it s'perlatively well. But I don't suppose you've ever been a soother?"

"I work in the afternoons and most evenings," Janet explained, "but I have nothing much to do in the mornings."

Later, as Janet was helping Alice make some tea, she was alone with the little girl in the kitchen.

"We have a colored maid when we can afford one," Alice explained. "and we have one now, but she doesn't come on Sundays. I look after things, though."

"I think you're very brave," Janet said. She was sitting down on a chair by the table, and she looked affectionately at her little friend.

"Brave?" Alice repeated. "Of course. One has to be brave if one isn't a man. Didn't you know that?"

Suddenly Janet put her arms about the child and pulled her to her.

"What a wise child you are!" she exclaimed, as she kissed the grave little face.

"I am quite sure that I love you," Alice announced, returning the kiss. "But do you think that men are very brave, Janet, if you don't mind me calling you that?"

Have you ever seen a man cut his finger? I suck mine if I cut it and tie it up with a bit of rag if it's bad, but a man—Daddy or Leonard, or any of Daddy's men friends—has to be dis-fected and everything. Men have to be ever so careful of germs, and I'm not a bit afraid of them, and you can't dis-fect all men with iodine when they're afraid of iodine poisoning, some of them, and yet they're not afraid of b'ratic acid—so you have to know. But it does seem that they're afraid of lots of things. And when they have a cold in the head, then it's gripe and not just a cold, and then they're afraid of pneumonia setting in. Have you ever noticed that?"

Janet kissed her again. "Many, many times, Alice, only you happen to have brought it to my attention. What's that bread?"

"Special bread for Dad, because he's afraid of putting on weight," she announced seriously. "He weighs himself every day and it's terrible if it's too much."

"And you attend to all these things?" Janet asked admiringly. "Do you know, Alice dear, that you remind me very much of when I was a little girl, though I was older than you when—when I became a soother. I am not at all sure that I want to go on—being a soother."

"But you'll have to go on," Alice informed her, as she poured some cream into a pitcher. "When you marry, you know! That's what wives are for—to be soothers. I thought you would have known that!"

"I think," Janet decided laughingly, "that you are quite the wisest person I have ever met, Alice!"

REPUBLICAN PARTY AIDS WORKERS

THE Republican party protects the worker. That principle was enunciated by Herbert Hoover in his address at Newark, N. J., on Sept. 17. Here in a town like Brainerd where every man works at some task, the statements of Mr. Hoover should be read with attention and digested.

"The first of our policies which have given security and expansion of employment has been the enactment of the protective tariff," said Mr. Hoover. "The protective tariff has been a fundamental policy of the Republican party ever since the party was founded. Against it the Democratic party has battled for these same seventy years. Two months ago their platform hinted that they thought we might be right. However, they declared for a tariff that would maintain effective competition. That must mean a tariff which will maintain effective competition of foreign against American goods. That is not protection. That this is the meaning is borne out by references to the Underwood Tariff of the last Democratic administration as the ideal."

"The re-enactment of that tariff would let in a flood of foreign goods, destroy employment and lower wages and demoralize our farmers all over the United States. I would suggest that the employees of industries in New Jersey and the country should directly investigate as to what would happen to their employment with lowered tariffs."

Another thing that the Republican party has done to aid labor in the United States is championing proper immigration laws and their enforcement.

Mr. Hoover says: "The Republican administration imposed restrictions upon immigration largely to protect the American workman. With the bars of immigration down the flow of those seeking relief from the poverty of Europe would create a horde of job hunters around every employment office and every industrial gate in the United States. The pressure of this flood would break our wages towards the levels of Europe."

"No one places a higher worth upon the foreign-born citizen than I do. He brings many elements of great value in our cultural development. The immigration laws should be amended to remedy the hardships to families. I have urged before that this be done. In my acceptance speech I stated my opposition to any increase in immigration. The restriction upon immigration is a boon not only to those of my hearers who were born on American soil but to those who have come from the old countries, for every one would suffer equally by the lowering of wages and standards of living."

"The enactment of this law was opposed on economic grounds. I do not here propose to enter into the arguments which were advanced in perfect good faith that production in America would shrink because we would have too few workers, that the cost of living would thus increase, or that it would destroy America's ability to compete in the shipment of her goods into foreign markets. I did not agree with these arguments. I believe that the maintenance of the higher standards of living stimulate the development of labor-saving devices, increase skill in our workmen, and in our managers, and that in this way we compensate for higher wages. It is proving itself so today. We are exporting more goods abroad than ever in our history. We are gradually lowering the cost of living by greater efficiency."

"There is no measure on our statute books today that represents a more fundamental, sound and important step in true progress than does this new charter of American labor. It is the need essay and natural companion piece of a protective tariff. In the one instance we protect the American worker from the goods of foreign factories, made under their lower standards of living. In the other case, we prevent the excess labor flooding through our doors to reduce the American wage."

Summing it all up, it is through the protective tariff and restrictive immigration that American industry is protected from the unfair competition of cheaply made foreign goods, and the American workman is made secure in his job and guaranteed wages much higher than would be the case if he were compelled to compete with the horde of cheap foreign labor that would flood this country if the immigration bars were lowered.

These things are facts. Does any worker want to imperil his job by changing conditions? Do you want a Democratic change in tariff and opening the gates to immigration to lower the worker's pay and standard of living? The question is a vital one.

LIND REFUSES TO BACK TAMMANY

FORMER GOVERNOR JOHN LIND, staunch democrat, will not "vote for Tammany," he declared, according to the statement published in the Minneapolis Tribune.

He made no comment on Alfred E. Smith or Herbert Hoover as candidates, but made it plain he is bolting the Smith nomination.

"I shall not vote for Tammany," Mr. Lind said. "I served with Tammany representatives in congress for years, and know it well enough to know that it is devoid of principle. The Tammany organization has been a millstone on the neck of the democratic party as long as I can remember."

"If the party once gets rid of the Tammany influence, I am confident we shall see a union of the liberal elements from Mexico and the Gulf of Mexico to Canada. It may not come in my time, but I have always worked for it. The best interests of the party and of the country demand such a union and hence insure its coming some time."

Mr. Lind was a republican member of congress from the second Minnesota district from 1887 to 1893, left the party on the silver issue in 1896, and was elected governor as a democrat in 1898. He served one term in congress as a democrat from the fifth district, from 1903 to 1905. In 1913 he was President Wilson's special representative in Mexico.

STORM SEWER

EVERY heavy storm with over two inches rainfall brings the truth nearer that a storm sewer is an absolute necessity in our business district.

After we count the losses sustained, we may figure it is cheaper to build one. With the project of the sewer comes also the debate as to how much territory is to be taxed for the improvement.

Are the benefits to be assessed southward into residence area, and how far in the other directions?

MANY of the indolent Southerners of the colored race have hookworm. A Public Health Service report now indicates that more than half the adult population regardless of color line has ringworm.

WHAT'LL HE SAY IN NOVEMBER?

Broadway Love

by Thomas Edgefow

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JANET WILDE is the young and pretty daughter of Fenimore Wilde, one of Broadway's favorite actors. His son Frank is an idler and, like his father, a spendthrift. The girl has a hard time mothering them both. On the eve of a great opening night for her father, Janet accepts the proposal of Gordon Pryor, a young but impecunious actor. In a restaurant she meets a young musician, Leonard Quigg, who attracts her. Janet's father drops dead after a brilliant performance, leaving her and her brother almost penniless. Gordon Pryor breaks his engagement and Janet realizes that it was her father's prestige and not love for her that prompted his proposal. She obtains the position of confidential secretary to John Montague, theatrical impresario. At the same time she quarrels with Leonard Quigg and cements a friendship with a brilliant young doctor, David Churchill, who is secretly in love with Janet. Her employer offers to make her a star and settle a large sum of money on her—with provisions. She sneers at his "generosity" and makes him promise never to mention the matter again. When she patches up her quarrel with Leonard Quigg he takes her to the studio of his uncle, Chester Quigg, well-established artist.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVIII.
LEONARD went to the huge piano at the back of the vast apartment and seemed lost in his music. Janet was sitting on a couch with Chester Quigg, examining a portfolio full of drawings.

"Look at the shading of that foot, Miss Wilde," Chester exclaimed shamelessly. "Masterly! You must admit—I defy you to deny—that the shading of that foot is masterly!"

And the fact remained—the shading was masterly, and that master of the pencil knew it, and raved about his own work just exactly as though it had been executed by somebody else.

"So few artists are modest," Janet permitted herself, with a sly smile.

"Modesty—what is it?" he belittled. "Stuff for women! Modesty! No one worth anything is modest—only another form of hypocrisy! Away with it!"

"A small voice, rather a charming voice, penetrated to Janet's ears."

Looking up, Janet perceived a little girl with a grave, sweet face, and long, golden hair, which she wore down over her shoulders.

"You mustn't mind him," the little girl went on. "He wouldn't shout and explain things to you if he didn't like you, but father is not as other men."

"Heart of my heart! Aren't I as other men?" Chester Quigg shouted, and he picked his little daughter up as though she had been five instead of twelve, and sat her on his knee.

"Aren't you always saying that you aren't? And don't you know enough, Daddy, to introduce me? Will you never be conventional?"

"Poor child! Hoping for the impossible—that her parent will be what he can't be," Leonard, who had joined the little group, put in. "This is that unfortunate child, Alice Quigg—Janet Wilde," he introduced them.

Alice struggled off her father's knee and made Janet a little old-fashioned courtesy. She looked at the visitor admiringly, and then much as though she were criticising a picture, she said: "You're very beautiful."

"Thank you very much," Janet said laughing. "Do you generally tell people what you think?"

"This is 'The Studio of Truth,'" Alice replied gravely. "Daddy calls it that, and you've no idea how embarrassing it is at times—to live in a studio of truth. Some people don't like it, and then they get mad and go away, and unless I can soothe them down, then we don't see them any more. I don't suppose you've ever been a soother, have you?"

"A soother?" Janet asked, deciding that already she loved this child.

"A soother of an artist's nerves," Alice explained. "Daddy says that's my job, and that I do it s'perlatively well. But I don't suppose you've ever been a soother?"

"But indeed I've been a soother," Janet told her. "My father was an actor—Fenimore Wilde."

"Was? Is he dead—like my mother?"

"Miss Wilde's father was the most celebrated actor on the American stage, and only died last November," Leonard supplemented.

"And you used to be a soother to him?" she asked gravely. "Do actors have nerves the same as daddy?"

"It has been known," Janet said gently. "And do you find your job very difficult—as a soother?"

"It all depends," Alice sighed. "I tried living away from him. I went to stay with an aunt in Boston, but I was very unhappy, and I missed dad and the studio. Besides, he got himself all nervous and upset and quarreled with everybody, so we had to live together again. I have a governess who comes in the mornings, but dad doesn't feel that woman's education is very important. He says, and maybe he's right, that the more they're educated the worse they are to live with, because they become too s'perior, but that the worst thing they do is art. # COLLEGE TEAMS WARMING UP FOR START OF GRID GAME

ROCKNE NOT OPTIMISTIC OVER FIRST WORKOUTS

COACH FIELDING YOST SMILES APPROVAL OF 50 YARD SPIRALS

8 TEAMS REPORT FOR PRACTICE AT UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

(By United Press)
Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 20.—(UP)—Knute Rockne brought together a regular squad and a reserve eleven in the first business-like scrimmage of the football season here. The veteran coach expressed no optimism over the results of the workout. The regular team group were: ends, Vezie and Collins; tackles, Ransavage and Donohue; guards, Herwit and Leppig; center, Nash; quarter, Morrissey; halves, Elder and Dew; and Shay at full.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 20.—Coach Fielding H. Yost smiled approval of the 50 yard spirals booted by four punters singled from his grid candidates. They were Homes, Canton, O.; Bator, Detroit; Capt. Rich, Lakewood, O.; and Gembs of Vicksburg, Mich.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 20.—The regular two-hour practice session of the eight teams which reported for football practice workouts at the University of Illinois yesterday was taken up with liberal scrimmage assignments, with passing featuring the day's work in development of an offense.

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 20.—(UP)—Princeton will use eight football coaches this season instead of ten used last year.

The varsity coaching staff includes Bill Roper, head coach; Al Wittmer, line coach; Stan Keck, tackle coach; Shad Davis, end coach; Nat Poe, coach of reserves, and Keene Fitzpatrick, trainer. Brad Dinsmore and Pidge Neidlinger will coach the freshmen team.

In the early season practice sessions Roper is stressing aerial attack. Thirty minutes each day is devoted to passing for the backs and ends. During the morning blackboard drills are held, instructing the candidates in defensive and offensive plays.

New York, Sept. 20.—The training camp of the New York University football squad at Farmingdale, L. I., will close a three week session Saturday.

It is expected that Head Coach Chick Meehan at that time will be prepared to name in part the unit which will open the season against Niagara University on Ohio Field on Sept. 29.

Columbia, Mo., Sept. 20.—The Missouri Tiger football squad reached its full strength yesterday when Francis Huff, giant tackle, reported for practice. Coach Gwynn Henry devoted much of the practice time to punt formations.

Farm Business Analysis Helps

Reviews Are Source of Valuable Information for the Farmers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Economic reviews by state agricultural colleges and the United States Department of Agriculture in which the farm situation and general supply and demand factors that affect agriculture are analyzed are becoming an important new service for farmers. The reviews are prepared by trained farm business analysts. They present facts and interpretations intended to guide producers in adjusting production to market demands.

A survey just completed by a committee of the outlook conference of the United States Department of Agriculture shows that 18 state agricultural colleges in addition to the federal Department of Agriculture now are issuing, monthly, or more frequently, publications which make economic information available to farmers in more or less popular form. Several additional states are contemplating the issuance of similar publications.

Start of Service.
The application of this type of service which is freely used in the industrial world, by furnishing farmers with economic analyses of agricultural conditions, was started shortly after the termination of the war with the issuance by the United States Department of Agriculture of a publication called "The Agricultural Situation." The publication, a brief monthly summary of economic conditions and prospects affecting farmers, was in quick demand as presenting basic facts which could be used by farmers to make readjustments to changed economic conditions in domestic and world markets.

Demonstration of the need by farmers for this type of information led to the establishment of similar services by the state agricultural colleges, until now more than one-third of the colleges are issuing economic reviews dealing with farm conditions. The characteristic common to most of these publications is an effort to present the basic factors which make up the current picture of production, movement, consumption, and price of farm products. Some states hold chiefly to the presentation of their own research results; others interpret the current data of world-wide origin.

Part of Broad Plan.
The economic reviews are part of a broad program in which the United States Department of Agriculture and the state colleges are linked together, and which seeks to help the farmer to adjust his business as profitably as possible to the requirements of the market. ## LEGION CAGE MEN TO PLAY ALL GAMES AWAY THIS SEASON

MANAGEMENT BOOKS TEAMS ON TOUR THROUGH MINNESOTA, WISCONSIN

ENGBRETSON AND WALSH SECURED AS ADDITIONAL PLAYERS THIS YEAR

Early preparations are being made for the organization of an American Legion basketball team in Brainerd that will play all its season games out of the city. Lack of gymnasium facilities this season will prevent the team from playing here.

A preseason outlook shows an optimistic view of the strength of the Legion team this season. Wally Engbretson, a star of many years on the courts will be found in one of the forward positions. He played college basketball with Augsburg last year when the team last year were runners up for the state college title. Welsh is a new member of the team with many years of experience on the basketball floor. Fans love his style for he is a clean cut player. With him will be found Earl Fitzsimmons, an all around good player with lots of fight. He will probably be placed to fill Bus Lowe's shoes, the latter attending college this year. Nutting will be given a chance to make the team. His speed is expected to be an asset to the team. Marshall, Whitlock, DeRoche, and Otto Heikkinen will also be found in the Legion uniform.

The team management has already arranged games in Minnesota, and Wisconsin. Last year the locals won 18 games, losing eight, and winning the city league title from the Y. M. C. A. boys.

The Ace of the Giants

By QUIN HALL.
JOHN J. MCGRAW, manager of the New York Giants, may not always be right, but when he makes an error of judgment he usually gets into his trading clothes and fixes things so that the Giant rooters reap the benefits.
John J. in his long reign as boss of the Giants has turned loose a lot of good baseball material, but he's broad-minded enough to admit that sometimes his early opinions have been proved all wet and he'll go out and spear a ball player who has been a former Giant if he thinks it's going to bolster up his ball club.

The case of Larry Benton, who is now the Giant's pitching ace, is a fine example of such an instance. Larry, when he first nosed his way into the big show, was a Giant rookie.

McGraw had him on a training team or two, and couldn't see where he was going to be a big asset to the Giants. He was traded to Boston.

He was with the Braves a few seasons, and McGraw decided that, after all, he might prove a help in New York. And last year John J. traded Greenfield and Farrell to the Braves for Benton and Taylor.

Everyone who has a nodding acquaintance with the national game knows what a "clap" Benton has really been to the Giants during the season which is rapidly coming to a close. No matter where the New York club may finish in the final ratings, it isn't Larry's fault they didn't cop the bunting, because Benton certainly has won his full quota of victories.

All season Benton has been the leading flinger in the National League, and it is almost a certainty that he will finish at the top of the heap at the end of the year. While the boys in the anvil chorus may say that McGraw has picked the soft spots for his star twirler, Larry has pitched, in his turn, pretty regularly, and to date none of the other moundsmen are crowding him for the honors.

While it is said by a lot of the wise birds that the Giants are told exactly what to do in each day by McGraw him, it is also declared that Benton is one flinger who needs no coaching from the master mind while he is on the firing line. In other words, if McGraw from the dug-out does signal his pitchers what to serve to the batsmen he never feels it necessary to wigwag warnings to Larry when the latter is working on the hilltop.

Pitching comes easy to Benton. Through perfect contrivance, Larry expands comparatively little energy and he is the first really dependable pitcher the Giants have had in a good many years. His standing in the win and lose column proves conclusively that he can be depended upon to win almost every time he makes a start. The value of such a flinger to any ball club is incalculable.

He is generally regarded as the only modern pitcher of the class of Mathewson, Brown, Johnson, Penock and Alexander. High praise, indeed, but his record of achievement this season marks him as one who is really deserving of such laurels.

McGraw's decision to drag Benton back into the Giant field was a masterstroke and it's one of those things which make McGraw stand out as one of the ablest managers that the game has ever known.

The Giants may not win the pennant this year, but they have caused plenty of damage. Known as a tough ball club to beat they have been extra tough this year especially when Benton was doing his stuff.

COLLEGE TEAMS WARMING UP FOR START OF GRID GAME

ROCKNE NOT OPTIMISTIC OVER FIRST WORKOUTS

COACH FIELDING YOST SMILES APPROVAL OF 50 YARD SPIRALS

8 TEAMS REPORT FOR PRACTICE AT UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

(By United Press)
Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 20.—(UP)—Knute Rockne brought together a regular squad and a reserve eleven in the first business-like scrimmage of the football season here. The veteran coach expressed no optimism over the results of the workout. The regular team group were: ends, Vezie and Collins; tackles, Ransavage and Donohue; guards, Herwit and Leppig; center, Nash; quarter, Morrissey; halves, Elder and Dew; and Shay at full.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 20.—Coach Fielding H. Yost smiled approval of the 50 yard spirals booted by four punters singled from his grid candidates. They were Homes, Canton, O.; Bator, Detroit; Capt. Rich, Lakewood, O., and Gemblis of Vicksburg, Mich.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 20.—The regular two-hour practice session of the eight teams which reported for football practice workouts at the University of Illinois yesterday was taken up with liberal scrimmage assignments, with passing featuring the day's work in development of an offense.

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 20.—(UP)—Princeton will use eight football coaches this season instead of ten used last year.

The varsity coaching staff includes Bill Roper, head coach; Al Wittmer, line coach; Stan Keck, tackle coach; Shad Davis, end coach; Nat Poe, coach of reserves, and Keene Fitzpatrick, trainer. Brad Dinsmore and Pidge Neidlinger will coach the freshmen team.

In the early season practice sessions Roper is stressing aerial attack. Thirty minutes each day is devoted to passing for the backs and ends. During the morning blackboard drills are held, instructing the candidates in defensive and offensive plays.

New York, Sept. 20.—The training camp of the New York University football squad at Farmingdale, L. I., will close a three week session Saturday.

It is expected that Head Coach Chick Meehan at that time will be prepared to name in part the unit which will open the season against Niagara University on Ohio Field on Sept. 29.

Columbia, Mo., Sept. 20.—The Missouri Tiger football squad reached its full strength yesterday when Francis Huff, giant tackle, reported for practice. Coach Gwinn Henry devoted much of the practice time to punt formations.

Edward Burke, tackle and captain of Naval Academy football eleven, which is rapidly getting into fighting trim under the watchful eye of Coach Bill Ingraham.

Farm Business Analysis Helps

Reviews Are Source of Valuable Information for the Farmers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Economic reviews by state agricultural colleges and the United States Department of Agriculture in which the farm situation and general supply and demand factors that affect agriculture are analyzed are becoming an important new service for farmers. The reviews are prepared by trained farm business analysts. They present facts and interpretations intended to guide producers in adjusting production to market demands.

A survey just completed by a committee of the outlook conference of the United States Department of Agriculture shows that 18 state agricultural colleges in addition to the federal Department of Agriculture now are issuing, monthly, or more frequently, publications which make economic information available to farmers in more or less popular form. Several additional states are contemplating the issuance of similar publications.

Start of Service.

The application of this type of service which is freely used in the industrial world, by furnishing farmers with economic analyses of agricultural conditions, was started shortly after the termination of the war with the issuance by the United States Department of Agriculture of a publication called "The Agricultural Situation." The publication, a brief monthly summary of economic conditions and prospects affecting farmers, was in quick demand as presenting basic facts which could be used by farmers to make readjustments to changed economic conditions in domestic and world markets.

Demonstration of the need by farmers for this type of information led to the establishment of similar service by the state agricultural colleges, until now more than one-third of the colleges are issuing economic reviews dealing with farm conditions. The characteristic common to most of these publications is an effort to present the basic factors which make up the current picture of production, movement, consumption, and price of farm products. Some states hold chiefly to the presentation of their own research results; others interpret the current data of world-wide origin.

Part of Broad Plan.

The economic reviews are part of a broad program in which the United States Department of Agriculture and the state colleges are linked together, and which seeks to help the farmer to adjust his business as profitably as possible to the requirements of the market. The educational aspects of these publications, says the committee, have been and should be strictly adhered to.

Odd Light Production

Many minute sea shrimps and marine worms emit brilliant flashes of light because of their power of making at their pleasure a fatty substance which can be oxidized into a glowing phosphorescence. If one watches the breakers splash away from the prow of a river boat he will see the points and dashes of luminescence caused by minute jellyfish and three-horned animalcules, called ceratium.

OUTLINES CLUB WORK

Playlet on Rural Education Given by School of Agriculture Team

Improved methods of farming, greater expansion in crop development on the farms of the United States have brought about the condition that a good education is necessary for a person to become a good farmer, County Agent E. G. Roth, explained to an audience of 55 at the Little Pine township meeting last evening.

The county agent stated that to be a good farmer the man must have a good education and while it was possible that this could be secured by actual experience on the farm, years would be saved by securing the knowledge at school.

A playlet on rural education was given by Dangers and Engene, of the school of agriculture, University of Minnesota.

Mr. Roth spoke on rural education and boys and girls club work.

You will find this Hudson smooth, fast, reliable, brilliant. Its fuel economy is unequalled in cars of its weight and power. Fifteen to eighteen miles per gallon is the average of many thousand tests.

From standing start Hudson takes the full charge of power, mounting smoothly to high speed with a greater rapidity than you have looked for in any car.

It sustains even maximum road speeds with effortless ease; it takes hills as if they were not there.

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25¢ today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Johnson's Pharmacy and Economy Drug Co.
